PSYCHOLOGY EXERCISES

Here are three proven psychology exercises that increase happiness levels, providing results after just one week. Try all three exercises, and notice how they affect your mindset, and ultimately, your actions.

Three Blessings

1. Before you go to bed, write down three good things that happened during the day.
2. Then, write down why each of them happened.
3. Think about the impact these positive events had on your day. How would your day have gone if they didn't happen?
4. Identify three strategies for continuing to live in a state of thankfulness, manifesting more positivity and improvement.
5. Write down each time something good happens, or actions you take to make a bad situation good.

Gratitude Visit

1. Think of someone who has done something important for you who you've never properly thanked.
2. In a letter, write down exactly what they did and the specific effect it had on your life. Be specific.
3. Write and rewrite it multiple times. Make it powerful and concise.
4. Handwrite the letter or use calligraphy - be creative.
5. Meet with the person face to face, and read them the letter. Don't forget to bring tissues - the tears may flow.
